Still in the spirit of MLK Day yesterday...

Dr. King talked about transformation. He wanted to see the complete transformation of society around him. Not only his community but a whole nation. He is, understandably, the man in the limelight when we think of the Civil Rights movement of the 1960's. The amazing thing I think about is the fact that two other men, not Dr. King organized the March on Washington, where Dr. King gave his famous speech. One man roller skated from Chicago to Washington D.C. in his own protest for Civil Rights. Numerous people were actually the reason for the transformation in our society.

There is a lesson there I just know it! When we are attempting our own transformation whether at work, in our organization, or in our family (no matter how seemingly small) it takes a TEAM around us to help transform the world as we know it.

Happy Tuesday!

Cheers,
